Communication Without Words

For this assignment each student must take a set of five photos that provide visual clues about his or her own personality, preferences, hobbies, etc. in such a way that others in the class can get to know him or her better.

- The images should mostly be pictures of objects rather than of people.
- The “clues” cannot be pictures of other pictures or documents that would violate copyright.
- The “clues” cannot show any writing that includes the person’s name.
- The “clues” may include things like tattoos but should never reveal more than would ordinarily show when a student is wearing school attire.
- If a student is not sure about whether or not a photo would be appropriate for this project, he or she should ask the teacher.
